Circular from Commander Foster in Reference to Funds for the Grant Monument.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTM'T OF INDIANA, GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC, FORT WAYNE, Sept. 30, 1885. [Circular No. 4.]

Attention is hereby called to circular No. 1 from national headquarters, suggesting that a sum of money, equal to a contribution of fifteen cents for each member of the Grand Army of the Republic in good standing, be raised for the purpose of erecting a monument to our departed comrade, Gen. U. S. Grant, which will testify forever our affection for him as a comrade, and fitly symbolize our appreciation of his great services to our country, in whose behalf we, with him, periled our lives and offered our all.

Comrades, should we of Indiana fail to make a hearty and prompt response to this suggestion of our commander-inchief we should not only be derelict in duty, but apparently lacking in devotion to the memory of the great soldier so recently laid at rest amidst the tears of a whole nation. Any failure on our part to do our full duty in this enterprise could not but unfavorably affect the standing of this department.

Benjamin, assistant quarter master, Indianapolis, Ind. At the same meeting at which this appropriation is made, let a committee be appointed to collect fifteen cents from each comrade, that the general fund may be speedily reimbursed. It is further suggested that the amount appropriated can be in many instances put back into the post treasury by the proceeds of a camp-fire, supper lecture or some similar attraction or entertainment and perhaps a nice sum be thus realized over and above the amount required.

As rapidly as these contributions are received they will be acknowledged, and the names, numbers and locations of the posts, making them will be published in the Veteran's Review, of Indianapolis, and the National Tribune, of Washington. Let there be a generous rivalry between the posts of this department as to which can respond with the greatest promptness to this appeal of our commander in-chief.

Steinway vs. Kranich & Bach. Some years ago, before Kunkle Brothers had abandoned the piano business to devote their entire energies to their publications, they had in their warerooms, side by side, a number of Kranich & Bach and Steinway pianos. Struck by the great similarity of tone in the two makes, the brothers began a series of experiments. Whenever a well known musician came in he was asked whether he could tell the difference between a Steinway and a Kranich & Bach, simply by listening to the two. The answer was almost invariably in the affirmative. Then the musician would be asked to look out the window. One of the Messrs. Kunkle would then play some brief selection upon all the pianos of the two makes and as each was touched the listener would call out the name of the maker. The guesses were quite as often wrong as right, and in many cases the same instrument, was played upon two or more times and assigned in turn to the two makers. There was not one musician of any prominence in St. Louis who was not caught, as those who had been unsuccessful brought others and tried the experiment upon them. The editor of the Review, though not a "prominent musician," though he had a pretty good ear and tried his luck with the rest, only to be convinced at last that he did not know as much as he had supposed. There was one man, however, and he was blind as a bat, who never made a mistake. Again and again he was tried, but as soon as he was placed at the piano and played a few notes he unerringly called out, as the case might be "Steinway" or "Kranich & Bach." It is to be noted that be always insisted upon trying the pianos himself, claiming that the touch of another could not guide him as well as his own, and as he was totally blind and could not see the stencilled name of the manufacturers, this was thought to be perfectly safe. The Messrs. Kunkle and the other experimenters wondered at the acuteness of hearing or of touch that enabled the blind man to detect, without ever failing, differences which elude the grasp of those who were undoubtedly his superiors in most respects. one day while experimenting with him for perhaps the fiftieth time, Mr. Charles Kunkle noticed that before he began to to play the blind fellow felt the ends of one or two of the black keys. At that time Kranich & Bach finished the ends of the black keys with sharp corners while the Stineways finished them some In order to save time the department what round. A light began to dawn broad daylight when the proceeding was repeated each time our blind seer sat a from Kunkle Brothers to Kranich & Bach, requested them to finish the black This was done (and we believe Kranick & Bach have continued to finish their black keys in that style ever since). Soon after these pianos arrived the blind hero appeared upon the scene and in the presence of several visitors averred that he could always tell a Steinway from any other piano and was led the rounds. This time, all the pianos in the wareroom were Steinways. The ill-supressed laughter of the on lookers soon warned our guesser that something was wrong and when at last he was told of his mistakes and was charged with the little trick of having told in previous trials not by the tone or the regulation of the action, but by the finish of the keys, he laughingly acknowledged the deception practiced by him upon the "smarties" who could see as well as hear, but, said he: "Gentlemen there is one way in which even a blind man can tell the difference between a Steinway and Kranich & Bach, an infallible way." "Well, what is it?"

"Will you treat if I tell?" "But what if your test is not infalli-

"Then I'll treat the crowd." "And who shall be the judge?"

"Why, a majority of those present." One of the listeners accepted the offer. "Weel," drawled the blind musician,

'you can always tell by the price asked!" The test was recognized as infallibleit is probably the only one-and the

l Case Resembling that of Gen. Gran t. Some ten years ago I had a scrofulous sore on my right hand which gave me great trou-ble, and under the old time treatment was healed up, and I supposed I was well. I found, however, it had only been driven into tound, nowever, it had only been driven into the system by the use of potash and mercury and in March, 1882, it broke out in my throat, and concentrated in what some of the doctors denominated cancer. I was placed under treatment for this disease. Some six or seven of the best physicians of the country had me at different times under their charge, among them three specialists in this line. But one at different times under their charge, among them three specialists in this line; but one after another would exhaust their skill and drop me, for I grew worse continually. The cancer had eaten through my check, destroying the roof of my mouth and upper lip, then attacked my tongue, palate and lower lip, destroying the palate and under lip entirely and half my tongue, eating out to the top of my left check bone and up to the left eye. From a hearty, robust woman of 150 pounds, I was reduced to a mere trame of skin and bones, almost unable to turn myself in bed. I could not eat any solid food, but subsisted on liquids. almost unable to turn myself in bed. I could not eat any solid food, but subsisted on liquids and my tongue was so far gone I could not talk. The anguish of mind and the horrible sufferings of body-which I experienced never can be revealed. Given up by physicians to die, with no hope of recovery upon the part of friends who sat around my bedside expecting. friends who sat around my bedside expecting every moment to be my last; in fact, ny hus-band would place his hand on me every now and then to see whether I was alive or not, and at one time all decided that life was extinct, and my death was reported all over the country.

Such was my wretched and helpless condition the first of last October (1884), when my friends commenced giving me Swift's Specife. In less than a month, the cating places stopped and healing commenced, and the fearful aper-ture in my check has been closed and firmly knitted together. A progress of a new under lip is progressing finely, and the tongue which was almost destroyed is being recovered, and it seems that nature is supplying a new tongue. I can talk so that my friends can readily understand me, and can eat solid food again. I am able to walk about wherever I please without the assistance of anyone and please without the assistance of anyone and have gained fifty pounds of flesh. All this under the blessing of a mercifully Heavenly Father, is due to Swift's Specific. I am a wonder and a marvel to all my friends, hundreds of whom have known my intense sufferings, and have visited me in my afflictions. While I am not entirely well, yet my gratitude is none the less devout, and I am confident that none the less devout, and I am confident that a perfect recovery is now in sight. 'If any doubt these facts, I would refer them to Hon. John H. Traylor, state senator of this district, who is my neighbor, Dr. T. S. The Man Who Jumped From the Brooklyn Bridge for Fame.

ROBERT E. ODLUM'S LEAP TO DEATH.

Above we present a picture of Robert Emmet Odlum, who on Tuesday the 19th inst., evaded the bridge policemen by the help of a friend who pretended that he was going to jump from the bridge, and thus attracted their attention from Odlum, who then sprang from the dizzy height, while Capt. Paul Boyton, the famous swimmer, and a party of friends watched his leap from a tug boat below. He struck the water upon his side, broke five ribs, burst a blood vessel, and died in five minutes after being taken from the water by his friend Boyton, who swam out and brought him into the tug. He had formerly been a newspaper reporter and his desire for notoriety cost him his life. The distance jumped was 135 feet. Robert E. Odlum was born near Ogdensburg, N. Y., in 1853. He was always fond of water and learned to swim before he could read. Five years ago he established a swimming-school in Washington and taught the art to many statesmen's sons. In June, 1883, he swam out and saved the life of Schuyler Colfax's son off Old Point Comfort, Va., after a hard struggle against wind and tide. During the last inauguration he was employed as a special detective at Willards Hotel, Washington, and later became a clerk in the establishment and gave up his swimming-school. The idea of jumping off the big bridge had long been a pet scheme of his. He jumped from the Washington aqueduci bridge, eighty feet, in May, 1880, on the day of the big Hanlan-Courtney boat race.

Sam Patch was the father of the jumping business. He was a shiftless fellow and one day while discouraged resolved to end his life, and attempted hari kari by leaping over a high water fall. To his surprise he didn't wake up in Ghostland, but found himself locally famous. He then jumped for money instead of death, and achieved a national reputation as a leaper. He made his first leap at Niagra Falls, October, 6, 1829, from a rock 70 feet above the water. That didn't hurt him much, and on the 17th of the same month he made a second leap from a scaffold at the foot of the Biadle staircase. At the foot of the stairs Sam Patch rigged up a ladder 100 feet high, climbed to the top, and then jumped down into the water to show, as he said, that some things could be done as well as others. Then he went to the Genesee Falls, and made a leap ou November 6, 1829, less than a week before he made the jump which killed him. His fatal jump was made at Rochester and was a distance of 125 feet. When Sam made his last leap he was so drunk that he could hardly stand.

Henry B. Peer made the highest jump on record. On May 22, 1879, he leaped from the Niagara Suspension bridge into the torrent below, a distance of 192 feet. The world hasn't heard much from him

VICTOR HUGO

The Great Poet and Novelist of France lost one of her greatest literary men in the death of Victor Hugo, who died at his home in Paris on the 22d inst. This distinguished author was properly the Count Victor Marie Hugo, but to all the world he was simply known as Victor Hugo, the wonderful poet, the great author, the celebrated statesman. He had passed his 83d year, having been born in Besancon, France, Feb. 26, 1802. He fell in love with his wife at five years of age, the little Mlle. Foucher, and only after many difficulties, for Hugo was poor, did he succeed in winning her hand her father having secondal. hand, her father having scornfully re-fused it, and asked him how he expected to make a living for her, laughing derisively at his reply, "with my pen." He finally gave his consent, however, and lived to see the young author the most famous of his sons-in-law. Few men have seen more domestic trouble than Victor Hugo. His daughter Adele, to whom he left half his fortune, or 400,000 francs, is a lunatic, his mother of the ere he had achieved fame, his father was stricken with appoplexy on the eye of his son's success, his brother lost his reason, his daughter Leopoldine and her husband were drowned while boating, and both his sons died some years ago, leaving him only a grand child, upon whom he havished his effection.

A Decision That Works Both Ways.

The supreme court of Indiana recently decided that where any county officer takes an illegal fee for services performed he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction, fined, etc., and shall be liable on his official bond to the party injured for five times the illegal fees, etc. This section does not authorize the giving of exemplary damages, but simply defines the officer's liability, and it is, therefore open to the objection that it is putting the offender in jeopardy twice for the same offenses, which are punishable by fine and imprisonment, yet they have in such cases a right to fix a definite limit to the offender's liability. The statute in question is constitutional. The bondsmen of a public offier become liable for all the legal obligations imposed by the law at the time the bond is executed and also all obligations imposed by laws subsequently adopted. (R. S., 5528-5534) The taking of illegal fees are chargeable against the bondsmen as acts done in the officer's official capacity and the five-year statute of limitation apples.

The Wabash yards at Andrews wear a decidedly lonely aspect. But one switching crew, in service only a few hours each day, is employed, and the tracks are barren of cars. THE SENTINEL never referred to the rediculous story reflecting on a prominent druggist and no newspaper should until it has reason to do so. The gentleman referred to will be so honorably acquitted of the charges made that his enemies will be ashamed of their shameful business. It is beginning to dawn on the public that no man's reputation is safe while loafers wag their foul tongues.

Mr. M. S. Wickliffe, the ex-deputy county treasurer, came home last night as THE SENTINEL said he would some days ago. He emphatically denies he eloped with Mrs. Clark. He denies he was with her or saw her from the moment he left Logansport. He denies any intention to cheat his creditors and this morning paid all the bills he owed in the city. People who sued him on notes not due, will have to stand the costs of their suits, as he will pay all papers when due. He had an interview with his wife to-day and will live here. THE SENTINEL gives Mr. Wickliffe the benefit of being houest and open about his statement. He says no man ever lost a dollar and no man will on him. He resigned his position as deputy treasurer last night and may engage in business.

Y. M. C. A.

Business Session of the State Association - The Proceedings To-Day.

The threatening weather deterred

many people from attending the session of the state Y. M. C. A. at the Princess

rink last night. The choir sung several hymns, and Rev. Fisher read from the new testament, and referred highly to the good old book. Rev. G. E. Southcomb offered prayer, and Rev. Dr. Mun hall reviewed the state work of the Y. M C. A. He contrasted the work in Indiana with other older and richer states, claiming it unjust to contend that as much good can be done out here. He described the work of the Y. M. C. A. in Indianapolis. Their noonday prayer meeting is the oldest in the country, having been organized in 1854, three years previous to the Fulton street prayer meeting. About $6,500 have been raised toward a building in Evansville. The work in New Albany is in first-class condition, every branch of their work and meetings being eminently successful. Mr. DePauw has promised one-third of the cost of a building whenever they are ready to put it up. Madison, Connersville, Richmond, Union City, Elkhart and South Bend are not dead in this matter, every one being heartily at work and succeeding more or less according to the conditions under which it works. Some reminiscences of the early work in Fort Wayne came very happily to those who remember the early days of the Y. M. C. A. in Fort Wayne. He said the Summit City needed the spirit and hoped to consumate good here yet. Prof. Dennis explained the college work and Mr. More the railroad work. The treasurer's report showed the receipts were $1,549.29; expenditures, $1,573.25, leaving a slight deficit, which, however, is about provided for by money pledged. Dr. Munhall intimated he would devote himself to executive work more in the future and urged the necessity of secretary work everywhere.

TO-DAY'S SESSION.

The convention was called to order at o'clock a. m., and devotional exercises conducted by A. J. Aireck, after which the permaneut president called the meeting to order for business.

It was moved and accepted that all pastors and visitors present be considered members of the association, and invited to take part in the exercises.

Moved and passed, on the account of the sickness of George W. Cobb, that ministers of the city have charge of the appointment for preaching in the different city churches to-morrow.

The first topic discussed was the lecture course. It was opened by George A. Butterfield, of New Albany, followed Hood's Sarsaparilla has been found suby questions and discussions by the convention.

The balance of the morning session was made up of short speeches, general discussions, etc.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon session was opened by devotional exercises by C. T. Esmond. After which the regular work of the association was acted on. This meeting was the best attended of any, a large back, sore loins, has kidney disease, number of ladies being present. Many | which Hunt's [Kidney and Liver] Remimportant subjects were brought up and a genuine good time was had. The meeting will be held to-night in the Princess rink and will be called to order at half-past seven o'clock.

A Card from W. McQuiston.

To the Editor of THE SENTINEL: In yesterday's paper you refer to Mrs. Belva Lockwood as Miss Belva Lockwood. This lady was the wife of Dr. Lockwood, deceased, May, 1877, a prominent citizen of Washington, D. C. The tribute you pay her no more than does her justice, she remains a widow.

DEAR SIE: We sought to bring about a joint debate butween Judge Foraker, and Governor Headly, in our letter of Saturday 26th, and in a subsequent communication in which you declined. We accept the challenge contained in your favor of last evening, for a discussion between Governor Hoadley and Judge Foraker. In order to expedito arrangements we suggest that the meetings be fixed at Oberlin, or the 5th of October, and at Cincinnati, on the 10th of October, and that Govornor Hoadly open and close the de bate at the fiast meeting and Judge Foraker open and close at the second; the discussion at each meeting to be limited to three hours; the gentleman opening the debate to do so in one hour, the reply not to exceed one hour and a half and the rejoinder one-half hour. The places selected are appropriate, as Governor Hoadley has publicly stated that Judge Foraker has one set of principles for Oberlin and another for Cincinnati. Attention is hereby called to circular No. 1 from national headquarters, sugesting that a sum of money, equal to a contribution of tifteen cents for each member of the Grand Army of the Republic in good standing, be raised for the purpose of creeting a meanment to our departed commide, Gen. U. S. Grant, which will testify forever our affection for him as a comrade, and fitly symbolize our appreciation of his great services to our country, in whose behalf we, with him, periled our lives and effered our all.

Constales, should we of Indiana fail o-make a hearty and prompt response to this suggestion of our commander-in-chief we should not only be derelief in duty, but apparently lacking in devotion to the memory of the great soldier so recently laid at rest amidst, the tears of a whole nation. Any failure on our part to do our full duty in this enterprise could not but unfavorably affect the standing of this department.

In order to save time, the department contramiler suggests that, at the same meeting at which this circular is read each post of this department appropriate from its peneral fund for this purpose, a sum equal to tifteen cents for each memin good standing; this amount to be forworded to Assistant Adjutant General Tom Sullivan, of Fort Wayne, Ind.; but the draft or money order to be payable to Track E. Benjumin, assistant quarter master, India. apolis, Ind. At the same meeting at which this appropriation is made, let a committee be appointed to collect iffteen cents from each comrade, that the general fund may be speedily re-inbursed. It is further suggested that the amount appropriated can be in many instances put back into the post treasury by the proceeds of a campetite, support entertainment and perhaps a nice sum be thus realised over and above the received they will be act controlled, and the names, numbers and locations of the posts, making them will be published in the Coteran's Lorose, of Indianapolus, and the National Testam, of Washingten. Let there be a generous rivalry be tween the posts of this department as to which can respond with the greatest promptness to this appeal of our commander mechal.

Steinway vs. Kranich & Bach, Some years ago, before Kunkle Brothers had abundoned the piano business to devote their entire energies to their publications, they had in their ware rooms, side by side, a number of Kran ich & Bach and Steinway pianos. Struck by the great similarity of tone in the wo makes, the brothers began a serieof experiments. Whenever a well known musician came in he was asked whether he could tell the difference between a Steinway and a Kranich & Bach, simply by listening to the two. The answer was almost invariably in the alternative, Then the musician would be asked to look out the window. One of the Mesers. Kunkle would then play some often wrong as right, and in many cases brief selection upon all the pianos of the two makes and as each was touched the listener would call out the name of the maker. The guesses were quite as the same instrument, was played upon two or more times and assigned in turn to the two makers. There was not one musician of any prominence in St. Louis who was not caught, as those who had been unsuccessful brought others and tried the experiment upon them. The editor of the Review, though not a "prominent musician," though he had a pretty good car and tried his luck with the rest, only to be convinced at last that he did not know as much as he had supposed. There was one man how-ever, and he was blind as a bat, who never made a mistake. Again and again he was tried, but as soon as he was placed at the piano and played a few notes he unerringly called out, as the case might be "Steinway" or "Krauich A Bach." It is to be noted that be always insisted upon trying the pisness himself, claiming that the touch of an other could not guide him as well as his own, and as he was totally blind and could not see the stencilled name of the manufacturers, this was thought to be perfectly safe. The Mesers, Kunkle and the other experimenters wondered at the acutoness of hearing or of touch that enabled the blind man to detect, without ever failing, differences which einde the grasp of those who were undoubtedly his superiors in most respects. one day while experimenting with him for perhaps the liftieth time, Mr. Charles Kutalle noticed that before he began to to play the blind fellow felt, the ends of one or two of the black keys. At that time Kranich a Back tinished the ends of the black keys with sharp corners, while the Stineways finished them some-what round. A light began to dawn upon the observer which began to be broad daylight when the processing was repeated each time our blind seer sat at a different instrument. Nothing was said however, but the next order that went from Kunkle Brothers to Kranich A Bach, requested them to finish the black keys precisely like the Stineway's. This was done (and we believe Kranich other piano and was led the rounds. This time, all the planes in the ware room were Steinways. The ill-supressed laughter of the on lookers soon warned our guesser that something was wrong and when at last, he was told of his mistakes and was charged with the little trick of having told in previous trial not by the tone or the regulation of the action, but by the timesh of the keys, he

A Decision That Works Both Ways.

The supreme court of Indiana reently decided that where any county officer takes an illegal fee for services performed he shall be deemed guilty of misdemesnor, and on conviction, fined, etc., and shall be liable on his official bond to the party injured for five times the illegal fees, etc. This section does not authorize the giving of exemplary damages, but simply defines the officer's liability, and it is, therefore open to the objection that it is putting the offender in prepartly twice for the same offenses, which are punishable by fine and imprisonment, yet they have in such cases a right to fix a definite limit to the offender's liability. The statute in question is constitutional The bendamen of a public offier become limble for all the legal obligations impresed by the law at the time the lend is executed and also all obligations imposed by laws subsequently adopted. (R. S., 5528-5534) The taking of illegal fees are chargeable against the landamen as acts done in the officer's official expacity and the five-year statute of limitation

The Business Session of the State Association - The Proceedings To-

Day.

The threatening weather deterred nany people from attending the session of the state Y. M. C. A. at the Princess rink last night. The choir sung several hymns, and Rev. Fisher read from the new testament, and referred highly to the good old book. Bev. G. E. South-comb offered prayer, and Rev. Dr. Mun hall reviewed the state work of the Y. M. C. A. He contrasted the work in Indiana with other older and richer states, claim ing it unjust to contend that as much good can be done out here. He described the work of the Y. M. C. A. in Indianareds. Their nonday prayer meeting is the oldest in the country, having been organized in 1851, three years previous to the Fulton street prayer meeting. About $6,500 have been raised toward a building in Evansville. The work in New Albany is in first-class condition, every branch of their work and meet ings being eminently successful. DePanw has promised one third of the cost of a building whenever they are ready to put it up. Madison, Conners-ville, Richmond, Union City, Elkhart and South Bend are not dead in this matter, every one being heartily at work and succording more or less according to the conditions under which it works. Some reminiscences of the early work in Fort Wayne came very happily to those who remember the early days of the Y. M. C. A. in Fort Wayne. He said the Summit City needed the spirit and hoped to consumate good here yet. Prof. Dennis explained the college work and Mr. More the railroad work. The treasurer's report showed the receipts were $1,549,25; expenditures, $1,575,25, leaving a slight deficit, which, however, is about provided for by money pledged. Dr. Munhall intimated he would devote himself to executive work more in the future and urged the necessity of secretary work everywhere.

The convention was called to order at 9 o'clock s. m., and devotional exercises anducted by A. J. Aireck, after which the permanent president called the meet ing to order for husiness. It was moved and accepted that all pastors and visitors present be considred members of the association, and invited to take part in the exercises. Moved and passed, on the account of the sickness of George W. Cobb, that ministers of the city have charge of appointment for preaching in the differest city churches to-morrow. The first topic discussed was the lecture course. It was opened by George A. Butterfield, of New Albany, followed by questions and discussions by the convention. The balance of the morning session vas made up of short speeches, general discus sious, etc.

The afternoon session was opened by levotional exercises by C. T. Lemond. After which the regular work of the association was acted on. This meeting rus the best attended of any, a large number of ladies being present. Many important subjects were brought up and a genuine good time was had. The meeting will be held to night in the Prince-s rink and will be called to order at half-past seven o'clock.
